He has testified its superiority to any similar compound ever yet introduced, and defies the public to produce any equal cure of the following diseases: Scrofula, King's Evil, Boreas, Jaundice, Female Diseases, Eruptions of the skin, - swollen glands, and all diseases arising in a morbid state of the blood.

Letter 1000:—Dear Sir: I wish through this medium to tell you of the success of your Sarsaparilla upon my little daughter, who is now thirty years of age. From infancy she has been troubled with a breaking out on her body resembling Eczema. A few years since her legs were covered over with large running sores. These closed last winter she grew so much more robust in the spring that I became alarmed, and sent about making application to a physician when I accidentally heard of your Sarsaparilla. I immediately procured a bottle and used it as directed. Before the first bottle was consumed its use, until the eighth was taken, when the entire cure was effected. I am now healthier than I have been for years better health than she ever did before. In justice to you I must say I consider your Sarsaparilla one of the

A great variety of PLATFORM BALANCES are now offered for sale, and many are used, which cannot be depended upon for correct weight. In many instances they do not agree with themselves. Merchants who have used them for months, supposing them correct, have been painfully disappointed. A few days' load, when divided and weighed in small drams, would show that the aggregate, from what was indicated by the same scale, when weighed at once. Frequently the same platform will give different weights upon every change of the po-

THE GREAT
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD!!
Dr. Blackwell's
Compound Sirap of Sarsaparilla & Versicola.
THIS Compound contains more active medicinal properties than any other ever introduced. It combines the most powerful alteratives, gentle laxatives, and stimulating tonics ever put together from the vegetable kingdom.
Its efficacy can be attested by a number of physicians;
who have used it in their practice in this city; and some of them can be better relied upon than those who have used it.
You might here give the names of some of the most responsible citizens in Louisville. We offer it to the public, on credit, for the purpose of giving it a trial.

Dr. H. S. Sissaparra, at one time, was introduced to almost every family in Louisville and Kentucky. His experience, however, has been such that the all-healing balm had not then been introduced.

Dr. Blackwell, seeing the deficiency, has supplied it, and feels confident that his friend Bull will not for one moment, seek to controvert it; will you, Doctor? Don't you?

This Compound is recommended in every case of Impurity of the Blood. It is unequalled in its alternative and purifying effects in the following diseases, and is specially recommended for Scrofula or King's Evil, Erysipelas, Carbuncles, Ulcers, and the Glands of the Neck, &c., &c.  astonishing—curing the most desperate cases afortenpartake the cure of all patients without distinction, he will undertake the cost of the medicine, requiring no fee unless the restoration of their health, and the fullest assurance to the patient's mind of the benefit conferred.—This is the principle upon which Dr. Vanderslice is governed. He has cured many persons afflicted with Bollsion, &c., &c., can have entirely removed and permanently cured by Dr. V. Thousands of persons have been cured by Dr. V. and can bear testimony to his wonderful success.

Dr. V. Vandercloek begavle to say further, that he has his own remedies prepared in a scientific and skillful manner under his own eye, to cure each and all diseases, which his attention has been so long directed, with the most successful results, to the benefit of the inhabitants of the country, by addressing a letter, or calling, to the doctor, stating symptoms, &c., and enclosing fee, can have advice and medicine sent them. PHILADELPHIA, May 17, 1849.

SIR: I have the honor to certify that I have long been afflicted with the Dropsy, from which I have suffered most severely, and which has rendered me almost totally incapable of performing my usual duties. I have tried many remedies, but have derived but little benefit, and have been obliged to resort to the use of the most powerful diuretics, which have done me but little good, and have even increased my suffering. I have, however, at length found relief in the use of Dr. A. J. VANDERLICE'S Kidney and Bladder Pills, which have restored me to health, and have enabled me to resume my usual duties. I am, therefore, most anxious to recommend them to all who are afflicted with the Dropsy, and to all who are suffering from any other complaint of the Kidneys or Bladder. I am, Sir, very respectfully,

More Whig Responses.

Our neighbor of the Journal gave his readers yesterday numerous extracts from the whig press of the country to show how the nominations of Scott and Graham were received. As his limited space did not permit him to give but a single extract from each, and as he could not find room for many others, we will endeavor to quote "opinions" of the whig press, that the people may see how some of them respond to their nominations.

Read the following from the Augusta Chronicle, a leading and widely circulated whig paper in Georgia:

THE WHIG NOMINATIONS.—It will be seen, by reference to our telegraphic dispatches, that Gen. Scott and the Hon. W. A. Graham have been nominated by the national whig convention for President and Vice President. The nomination of General Scott under any circumstances would not have been acceptable to the people of Georgia. It is not, therefore, to be wondered at that the news of his nomination should not only excite a feeling of deep and heartfelt mortification, but of universal condemnation, among the whigs and Union men of the city. We have heard of no one—not a single one—who approves it, and there is a very great change in public sentiment, few, if any, will support him.

In our opinion, he has no claims upon the country to the distinguished office to which he aspires for we regard his military services as constituting an objection rather than a recommendation. We want a civilian—a statesman—one who is familiar with the duties and responsibilities of the office, and who can be expected to change his views, and to whose discretion will be left the distribution of the spoils, if he should be elected. For these reasons we will not support General Scott.

It is proper to add that to Mr. Graham we have not the slightest objection. He is a distinguished and conservative statesman, whom we should be pleased to support if he were more worthily associated.

This position of ours is one by no means congenial to our tastes. We always greatly prefer to enter the field in an open and bold fight for him who has been selected as the standard-bearer of our principles; but to General Scott our objections are paramount to any considerations of mere party fealty.

Here is another extract. The Syracuse Star, a Filmore whig print, confesses to a reluctant and compulsory support of General Scott, and apologetically explains why:

We have not, and never can have, any expectations from the quarter of the nomination. So far as that is concerned we are in no better attitude than we should be in were we announcing the defeat of any party of our own preferred candidates. We, however, are unobstructed by this consideration in the course marked out for us by our engagements—entered into with the whig party, and which we have assumed the direction of this journal. Our motives for the adoption and support of the nomination are dictated by these engagements, and these alone. It is so nominated in the bond, and our "pound of flesh" is ready.

Mr. Albany Atlas has the following hit at the last Scott letter:

HOW NOT TO WRITE A LETTER.—Mr. Botts read in the whig convention the following letter from Gen. Scott. It is a curious specimen of political literature, and we would not wonder if it were the only one of the kind.

"My dear Sir: I have decided to write nothing to the convention, or to any individual member, before nomination, but should that honor fall to my lot, I will regard it as a duty to give my views on the compromise measures in terms at least as strong in my favor as those I read to you two days since. Please say as much to my friends, Gov. Jones, Mr. Botts, Mr. Lee, etc."

"In haste,"

"WINFIELD SCOTT."

Scott was pledged to his friends not to write, but the "poor fellow" writes, and he writes to write. He wrote to say he would not write, but if he should write he would write this.

There is no parallel for this but the reply of O'Connell to the anti-slavery banner:

"Six: You ask for my autograph. As I have made a solemn resolve never to grant such a request, to you or any intermediary of your profession, I refuse your request."

"Yours, &c," DANIEL O'CONNELL.

Mr. Trenton (N. J.) Gazette, a whig print, spoke of Gen. Scott as "weak, silly, passionate, illiberal, and devoid of the true principles of religious freedom."

It is a significant fact that the whig ratification meeting, held in New Haven, dodged the platform set up at Baltimore.

(For the Louisville Democrat.)

At an adjourned meeting of the citizens of Louisville, held at the court house on the evening of the 28th inst., to receive the report of the committee appointed to make arrangements for celebrating the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, the following programme and resolutions, which were received and unanimously adopted:

From the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer.

THE BALTIMORE WHIG CONVENTION.—While we cheerfully recognize our duty to sustain the nomination of the whig ticket, we will not willingly be equally our duty, briefly to place on record why it is, that Gen. Scott and not Daniel Webster, received the nomination of that body.

The testimony of an opponent of the ticket, is "always of more weight than that of a friend; and therefore, we quote the telegraphic dispatch of a quasi member of the convention, Henry J. Raymond, to the New York Times, dated the 28th inst., containing the following, which Mr. Raymond on the floor of the convention, admitted that he had written:

"Six ballots were taken from the strength of Webster, 29; Fillmore, 130; Scott, 133. Tomorrow, it is believed, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, and one or two others will give Scott the nomination, and the whig cause will be lost."

The northern whigs gave away on the platform with this understanding. If Scott is not nominated, they will charge breach of faith on the South.

"The New York delegation are very indignant at the summary election of the New York Scott men, and if Scott is defeated by it, they will not only charge breach of faith on the convention, and disavow its binding force."

It is quite true that this was declared to be a base, unmitigated falsehood; and it is equally true, that the author, from whom it was taken, had written what was false. But circumstances speak in a language which admits of no misapprehension; and the subsequent course of the party, and the subsequent nomination of Mr. Webster, and Virginia, leaves no doubt but that Mr. Raymond, for the purpose of apologizing for the whigs of the North according to a national platform, foolishly and weakly exposed the "bargain and corruption" through which Mr. Webster was to be defeated. His language admits of no misconstruction—no doubt. He says—Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, and one or two others will give Scott the nomination on the third or fourth ballot."

And these identical States did give it to him on the sixth ballot on Saturday. And then to account for their doing so, and to excuse the Scott whigs for yielding to the compromise, he adds:

"The northern whigs gave away on the platform, with this understanding: and fearful of a non-fulfillment of their part of the compromise, he makes proclamation of the bargain and corruption, and who, to effect it, threaten a renewal of agitation on the question of slavery!"

Do not let us be misundstood. We would not willingly place one leaf from the chapter of honor which adorns the brow of our country, and which he has so nobly won. We do not let us be misundstood. We would not willingly place one leaf from the chapter of honor which adorns the brow of our country, and which he has so nobly won. We do not let us be misundstood.
